eight tribes calls for an end to the myth of the typical new zealander the 8 tribes are eight distinct ways of thinking and living they are eight different value systems that explain why you know from first glance that your new neighbours aren't people like us beyond the imperial frontier is an exploration of the different ways māori and pākehā fronted one another the zones of contact and encounter across the nineteenth century beginning with a pre 1840 era marked by significant cooperation vincent o malley details the emergence of a more competitive and conflicted post treaty world as a collected work these essays also chart the development of a leading new zealand historian this edited volume is a timely and comprehensive summary of the new zealand lizard fauna nestled in the south west pacific new zealand is a large archipelago that displays the faunal signatures of both its gondwanan origins and more recent oceanic island influences new zealand was one of the last countries on earth to be discovered and likewise the full extent of the faunal diversity present within the archipelago is only just starting to be appreciated this is no better exemplified than in lizards where just 30 species 20 skinks 10 geckos were recognized in the 1950s but now 104 are formally or informally recognized 61 skinks 43 geckos thus new zealand contains one of the most diverse lizard faunas of any cool temperate region on earth this book brings together the world's leading experts in the field to produce an authoritative overview of the history taxonomy biogeography ecology life history physiology and conservation of new zealand lizards spanning nearly two centuries from first contact through to settlement and apology this major work focuses on the human impact of the war in the waikato its origins and aftermath from the 1970s onwards māori began a concerted effort to confront pākehā with the wrongs done during the colonisation of new zealand they made highly contested claims for reparation of past wrongs and the restitution of their political power putting history at the heart of their claims this process of drawing on the past is examined by a wide range of writers both māori and pākehā and all highly respected thinkers in history law and philosophy histories power and loss offers an incisive analysis that is relevant to any country where political and legal relations between indigenous peoples and colonisers are being scrutinised what would a history of new zealand look like that rejected thomas carlyle s definition of history as the biography of great men and focused instead on the experiences of women one that shifted the angle of vision and examined the stages of this country s development from the points of view of wives daughters mothers grandmothers sisters and aunts that considered their lives as distinct from though often unwillingly influenced by those of history s great men in her ground breaking history of new zealand women barbara brookes provides just such a history this is more than an account of women in new zealand from those who arrived on the first waka to the grammy and man Booker prize winning young women of the current decade it is a comprehensive history of new zealand seen through a female lens brookes argues that while european men erected the political scaffolding to create a small nation women created the infrastructure necessary for colonial society to succeed concepts of home marriage and family brought by settler women and integral to the developing state transformed the lives of māori women the small scale of new zealand society facilitated rapid change so that by the twenty first century women are no longer defined by family contexts in her long awaited book barbara brookes traces the factors that drove that change her lively narrative draws on a wide variety of sources to map the importance in women s lives not just of legal and economic changes but of smaller joys such as the arrival of a piano from england or the freedom of riding a bicycle as a group of islands in the far south west pacific ocean new zealand has a history that is steeped in the sea its people have encountered the sea in many different ways along the coast in port on ships beneath the waves behind a camera and in the realm of the imagination while new zealanders have continually altered their marine environments the ocean too has influenced their lives a multi disciplinary work encompassing history marine science archaeology and visual culture new zealand and the sea explores new zealand s varied relationship with the sea challenging the conventional view that history unfolds on land leading and emerging scholars highlight the dynamic ocean centred history of these islands and their inhabitants offering fascinating new perspectives on new zealand s pasts the ocean has profoundly shaped culture across this narrow archipelago the meeting of land and sea is central in historical accounts of polynesian discovery and colonisation european exploratory voyaging sealing whaling and the littoral communities that supported these plural occupations and the mass migrant passage from britain frances steel we are heading towards thomas piketty s predicted steady state of wealth being worth six times national income we are not immune to his prognosis of a return to victorian style levels of inequality the most recent nbr rich list has revealed the biggest proportional increase in wealth since the list first appeared in 1986 but what do these figures mean and what else do we know about new zealand s fortunes following his groundbreaking work on income inequality max rashbrooke examines how wealth shapes our experience drawing on previously unpublished data he explores what constitutes wealth in new zealand where how and why it is held in doing so he addresses how wealth has come to be so unevenly distributed and why this imbalance is something we can no longer ignore today s new zealand is an emerging paradigm for successful cultural relations although the nation s maori indigenous polynesian and pakeha colonial european populations of the 19th century were dramatically different and often at odds they are today co contributors to a vibrant society for more than a century they have been working out the kind of nation that engenders respect and well being and their interaction though often riddled with confrontation is finally bearing bicultural fruit by their model the encounter of diverse cultures does not require the surrender of one to the other rather it entails each expanding its own cultural categories in the light of the other the time is ripe to explore modern new zealand s cultural dynamics for what we can learn about getting along the present anthropological work focuses on religion and related symbols forms of reciprocity the operation of power and the concept of culture in modern new zealand society
