what does it mean to live in time between the unforeseeable and the irreversible in the varieties of temporal experience michael jackson demonstrates the significance of a phenomenology of time for ethnography philosophy and history through a multifaceted consideration of the gap between our cultural representations of temporality and the bewildering multiplicity of our experience of being in time jackson explores temporality in a subjective mode as a form of literary anthropology the first part of the book tells the story of john joseph pawelka whose 1910 escape from prison and subsequent disappearance became one of new zealand s great unsolved mysteries discussing what it reveals about the interplay of popular stories hidden histories and media narratives in constructing allegories of national and moral identity in the second jackson reflects on journeys up and down the islands of new zealand touching on the ways that personal stories are interwoven with social and historical events throughout this groundbreaking book jackson juxtaposes philosophy history and ethnography in an attempt to do justice to the extraordinary variety of temporal experience at the same time exploring the ethical and existential quandaries that arise from the complexity of lived time william schaffer read and dreamed about new zealand before his first visit in 1995 mapping the godzone grew out of that visit and his attempts as an american to focus his impressions of new zealand s literary culture and relate its mental and moral landscape to that of the united states through an idiosyncratic selection of contemporary novels and films schaffer opens up a complex and compelling world readers will encounter internationally celebrated writers such as witi ihimaera fiona kidman ronald hugh morrieson maurice shadbolt albert wendt alan duff keri hulme patricia grace ian wedde and janet frame and the emerging new zealand film industry and the handful of directors among them jane campion peter jackson vincent ward and geoff murphy who have created a vital cinema renaissance since the 1970s stimulating and highly original in its approach mapping the godzone is an eloquent reflection on a remote island nation a rich and riveting record of both literary and social value frank sargeson is one of new zealand s best loved and most important writers besides the ground breaking short stories he wrote memoirs novels and plays he encouraged at least three generations of younger writers and for most of his adult life the famous bach behind the hedge at 14 esmonde road was at the heart of new zealand s artistic and literary world sargeson was also a prolific letter writer and this selection of 500 of the most fascinating ranges over half a century from 1927 to 1981 the letters are immensely readable vividly capturing his life and times his milieu and his personality frank loved gossip could be bitchy and peevish but also kind affectionate funny ribald astute this collection selected edited and annotated by sarah shieff is a document of extraordinary significance for all those interested in new zealand s literary and social history
