Margaret Wilson has always lived a political life. From her days as a child growing up in the Waikato in a Catholic family, attuned to fairness, an unlikely law student in the 1960s in a class with a few other women and an emerging socialist feminist who read radical texts and attended women's conventions, her key concerns became cemented early: the rights of women and equality for all under the law. This is the story of one of New Zealand's most eminent political actors, a policy-focused campaigner, reluctant to join a political tribe and uncomfortable with the combative attitudes and personal jockeying that politics seemed to entail. Wilson nevertheless rose to become the president of the Labour Party during the turbulent mid-1980s, going on to become a central, far-sighted, occasionally controversial minister in the Clark government. Wilson held significant roles as attorney general and speaker of the House. Activism, Feminism, Politics, and Parliament is a powerful analysis of political life in New Zealand over four decades, from pay equity to a home-grown supreme court, employment relations legislation to paid parental leave. The policies Wilson championed were based always in the long-held principles of a true conviction politician.

This book offers a sweeping history of Pureora Forest Park, one of the most significant sites of natural and cultural history interest in New Zealand. The authors review the geological history of the volcanic zone, its flora and fauna, and the history of Māori and European utilization of forest resources. Chapter-length discussions cover management of the native forest by the New Zealand Forest Service, the forest village and its sawmills, the intensive timber harvesting, and the conflicts with conservationists and expensive compensation agreements that ensued. Separate chapters cover initiatives to protect the forest from introduced herbivores to guard protected species especially birds from predators the facilities for recreational hunting the development of the timber trail an 83 km cycleway through the forest and along old logging tramways complete with detailed interpretation signs illustrating the history of logging and the family recreation areas and tracks the final chapter gathers conclusions and advances prospects for the future of pureora forest in sum the book demonstrates how ecological study combined with a respect for people and for nature plus a flexible interdisciplinary approach to both local history and current scientific priorities can be welded into a consistently effective strategy for addressing the pressing forest ecology questions of our time
