new zealand needs a constitution that is easy to understand reflects our shared identity and nationhood protects rights and liberties and prevents governments from abusing power the current constitution is vague jumbled and unclear it can be easily overridden or changed according to political whim this book aims to change that it proposes a modern codified constitution that is accessible and clear and it aims to stimulate debate about who we are as a nation and how we should be governed so we can forge enduring arrangements now instead of waiting for a crisis to force our hand while a constitution for aotearoa new zealand proposes some important changes it is at pains to preserve the sound elements of our past and our unique constitutional culture the authors conclude by seeking your feedback on their proposals which will be reflected in a second edition to be published in 2017 ultimately this book is an impassioned plea for government to be transparent accountable responsive and reflect the values of all new zealanders
