through the new zealand company the first european settlers began arriving in new zealand in the early 1840s among whom were several sets of great grandparents and great great grandparents of mine the original idea was to write a short history of my father s family and one of my mother s but i became so fascinated by these pioneers and their stories that i wanted to learn more about them and their ancestors i found scottish farmers seemingly dispossessed by war ancestors from devon who emigrated to america in 1642 i found admirals and generals who sailed and fought all around the world and i found generations of welsh carpenters builders and farmers their descendants packed themselves and their families into tiny boats and sailed to the bottom of the world they were fearless and determined to succeed in a brand new world i am so proud of their achievements and so proud to be part of their story palmerston north is known to new zealanders today and to its increasingly numerous overseas visitors as the urban focus of the prosperous and beautiful manawatu farmlands and as a university city of 52 000 inhabitants and as a model of farsighted planning by enterprising pioneers visitors and even residents seldom pause to consider that the bustling city the orderly countryside have been carved out from the great primeval forests that reigned the land until a bare one hundred years ago how all this was done and through what dogged persistence and by what concerted efforts by the pioneers is here recounted by dr george petersen himself a citizen of palmerston north for fifty two years and an historian of the scandinavian pioneers who played so vital a part in establishing the city and its surrounding pastures of the manawatu this is the proud record of a century of development it deserved to be written as it has been written as a tribute to a city s maori and pakeha progenitors and a challenge to their descendants dust jacket
